JAIL DELIVERY

In Pike County Narrowly Averted by Inspection of the State Examiner.

Frankfort, Ky., July 17.—Although it is not a part of the duty of the State Inspector and Examiner to inspect county jails, inspection of the Pike county jail, by Mc-Kenzie R. Tudd, State Inspector, prevented a jail delivery in which several men charged with murder would have escaped.

Mr. Todd was in Pikeville on some business connected with his office, an inspection of the books of the county officers there being under way. He was well treated by the county officials and they asked him to look over the county
just to see how bad the condition of it was. He said he had nothing much to do with the condition of the jail, but went along out curiosity. He found the jail to preach in Smoky Valley Sunday afsmall two-story affair, made of ternoon. Services at two o'clock.

stone, and so dark that even in the daytime one could not tell a white man from a negro in the interior. The jailer had to carry a lantern when he went into the jail, even in the daytime. He had his lantern with him when he and Mr. Todd entered. They looked about the place and Mr. Todd remarked that a new jail certainly was greatly needed. There were about a dozen prisoners in the place and the jailer had locked them in the cells before admitting Mr. Todd.

On the dirt floor of the first story was a coffee sack and the jailer kicked it aside in careless fashion to show Mr. Todd where some of the prisoners had once tunneled out. To his astonishment he found a big hole in the ground under the sack. The inmates of the jail had been digging their way out and had already made a considerable hole. Had they been allowed to work uninterrupted for a few hours longer they would have escaped. The coffee sack was used to conceal the hole they had dug, and but for the chance kicking aside of this sack it is probable, Mr. Todd says, that the prisoners would have made good their escape as they evidently had planned to get away that night.

Mr. Todd says the jail is in a weak condition and is hardly sufficient to hold the men who are confined in it. It is unsanitary and uncomfortable for the prisoners and it is probable that the citizens of Pike county will build a new jail within a short time.

JUDGE JOHN M. BURNS.

Former Circuit Judge of Big Sandy District Dies at Ashland.

After a short illness, heretofore noticed in this paper, Judge John M. Burns, of Ashland, died at his home in that city about ten o'clock Wednesday morning. His son, M. S. Burns, and his brother, R. T. Burns, and Mrs. Burns went to Ashland on the morning train Wednesday but did not arrive in time to see their venerable kinsman before his death. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon.

Judge Burns was born in what is now the lower part of Lawrence county more than 86 years ago. He was a lawyer of great ability, and held many positions of prominence and responsibility. He was licensed to practice law in 1846 and located at Whitesburg, later moving to Prestonsburg. No man in the Big Sandy valley was better known than John M. Burns. He was a man of genial disposition, affable manner, and generous to a fault. He leaves numerous descendants. Judge Burns had been for many years a member of the Baptist church, and the burial service will be conducted by the pastor of the Ashland church of that denomination.

To make the most of ice, it should be carefully washed and the pieces packed closely but scattered in far corners of the box. And it is a further economy to get the weight of ice which one pays for. Probably no class of workers has more to endure than "the iceman" during a heated season; but he is, as a rule, perfectly willing to be exactly fair in his deliveries, when complaints are made to him in a spirit of friendliness.

A Gypsy Supper.

A social event which for originality of design, success in execution and in pleasure rendered to guests surpassed any other similar occasion known in the history of Louisa, occurred on Monday evening last. Since the arrival of her daughter, Mrs. W. W. Wyson, of Allentown, Pa., Mrs. J. J. Fagg has spared no pains or effort to make her visit a pleasant one. The "function" of Tuesday was designed and executed by Mrs. Fagg, aided and abetted by sundry friends of both sexes. A good sized house, even a big yard with its swings and croquet, was not expansive enough. All outdoors was required and they used it. Maids, matrons and men were invited to a gypsy supper, and few declined. They gathered at a point on the river, just north of the residence of Jay Vinson and made ready for the supper. Big fires were built, and soon the feast was underway. This is a bad figure, for there were no ships nearer than Old Point Comfort, but there were many other figures present which made up for this "break." And the News hastens to say that none of the figures seemed at all made up. Meats were cooked in true gypsy fashion, and they were eaten in true Louisa fashion. And there was much that few gypsies ever ate, but all looked good, tasted good and was good. Grouped about the fires these "gypsies" made a picture at once pretty and picturesque.

From the camp they went to the Eldorado theatre, and from there to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Wallace, Jr., where they were pleasantly entertained and were served with refreshments.

Those who participated in it will long remember the Gypsy Supper.

To Save Ice Fill up Box.

It is the rapid melting of ice in the freezer which congeals milk and makes ice cream.

It is the slow melting of ice in the ice box which lowers the temperature of the refrigerator below that of the outside atmosphere and preserves food.

Therefore any method of saving ice which prevents its melting defeats the real use of the refrigerator. If ice is wrapped in newspaper, old burlap or carpeting it can be made last for a long time, but it will not melt and will not make the refrigerator cold.

The true economy of the ice box is to keep it as full of ice as possible and to keep the ice box full. When the temperature of the refrigerator is allowed to rise, the ice supply being small, it must be lowered by the addition of extra ice. The constant variation of temperature is a great source of waste.

To make the most of ice, it should be carefully washed and the pieces packed closely but scattered in far corners of the box. And it is a further economy to get the weight of ice which one pays for. Probably no class of workers has more to endure than "the iceman" during a heated season; but he is, as a rule, perfectly willing to be exactly fair in his deliveries, when complaints are made to him in a spirit of friendliness.

Mrs. Beauchamp to Lecture Here.

Mrs. Francis Beauchamp, President of the W. C. T. U. of Kentucky, will lecture at Louisa on the evening of August 9th. She is a temperance lecturer of national reputation and we predict that she will be heard by a large audience here.

Missouri Visitor.

Mrs. Hyron Diamond, born Miss Booten, was in Louisa this week, the guest of friends. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Booten, formerly of Prestonsburg, but now of Missouri. Mrs. Booten was once Mrs. George Archer, of Buchanan, and Mrs. Diamond will visit friends at that place before returning to Missouri, where her husband is practicing dentistry.

with his friend and by it the man was saved.

John Stuart Mill said of St. John that it was the worst of the Gospels, but the John Stuart Mills come and go, while St. John goes on forever. What beautiful, comforting words are found in that 14th chapter! One said after reading those tender words of Christ,

He was better to me than all my hopes,

Better than all my fears;

He made a bridge of my broken sighs,

And a rainbow of my tears.

Mr. Shannon said that in giving the third reason why Jesus is the greatest need of the soul he must coin a word: Jesus was the great externalizer. "If any man keep my commandments he shall never see death." Death comes to all, but as in going through the subway, the great passage under the East river, you go from shore to shore, safe to the "other side," but see no change. And the way to become at the end of the journey is to keep clean on the way.

It was throughout a sweet, comforting sermon, delivered with great earnestness and was listened to with rapt attention.

The Rev. Dr. Hanford assisted in the service and gave all present a cordial invitation to attend the M. E. church that evening. Mr. Shannon preached in that church at 7:30 and the large congregation heard a fine sermon.

WOLCOTT PATENT

Filed for Record at Frankfort, but Auditor Refused it.

Frankfort, Ky., July 15.—Because it would disturb land titles that have been held in peaceable and adverse possession for more than 110 years, Attorney-General Breathitt today gave his opinion that the Wolcott patent to 150,000 acres of land in Eastern Kentucky, which was never filed in the Kentucky Land Office, should not be recorded now.

He advised Mrs. Shirley Shackelford, of New York, heir to the land, to file suit to compel Auditor James to recognize the patent, but she declined to take action and will probably file suit in the Federal Court to compel the recording of the title.

"Whatever right that this (Wolcott) patent may have conferred when first issued it is my judgment that the patentee and those claiming under him have lost their rights," says Attorney-General Breathitt. The land is estimated to be worth $10,000,000.

Died Saturday Night.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Crutcher died on Saturday night last and was buried the following day in the Fulksone cemetery. It had been a frail, feeble bit of mortality from birth, and its painless transition from the womb of earth to the blissful realities of the Better Land should not be mourned.

Preceding the interment many friends of the family gathered at the residence, where the Rev. H. B. Lafitte conducted a short and appropriate service.

Are Going to Washington.

Mrs. Lizzie McHenry and family and R. M. Curnutt and family will leave next week for Washington and will settle near Seattle. They have relatives in that section of the State and homes are waiting them. Mr. Curnutt is a first class carpenter, and he will get $5.00 per diem for his work. These are all good people, and they carry with them best wishes of many friends for their prosperity.

Wm. Riggle loses An Arm.

Wm. Riggle, formerly telegraph operator at Richardson, but now in the same line of work in Illinois, met with a bad accident a few days ago. While attempting to deliver in the night a telegram to the engineer of a rapidly moving train he was knocked down and his arm so badly crushed that amputation was necessary.

The Farmers' Institute.

The News desires to call the attention of its farmer readers to the fact that the County Farmers' Institute will be held in Louisa Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 10-11. There will be a corps of practical lecturers to give instruction on live topics of interest to every farmer in the county. The talk will embrace every subject pertaining to agriculture and kindred pursuits, and will be made along lines which every hearer understand. It is probable that man from the bureau of agriculture at Washington will be here at the time and co-operate with the lecturers sent out by the State. It will be a disgrace to the country if those most interested do not turn out in force and attend this institute. Look the county over, you will see that the Farmers' Institutes, who read studies books and papers on agriculture is the successful farmer. He is who has no desire to go West and freeze up or dry up with the country. He has learned how to make farming pay—to make his land productive. For the sake of our people, the News appeals to its farmer friends to attend the coming institute every day and every hour.

Held a Fine Institute.

Profs. Byington and Keen turned Saturday from Pikeville where they held the County Teachers' Institute. They say the attendance of teachers was large, about 200, and that the teachers were models in attendance and deportment. They sang their praises of Flannery, who is the right man in the right place.

At the opening day of the institute told the teachers to what they had done and was concerned to say, but as to the future he would not say. They must let alone, be led by the nose everywhere and at all times attend the institute every day. They failed there would be inevitable revocation of their license and they might fight it out with the State Superintendent.

A WAIL FROM THE WEST.

Warning Frankly Sounded by Big Sandian in State of Montana.

Plains, Mont., July 14, 1910.—Friends and relatives of Lawrence county, Kentucky, through the columns of the Big Sandy News I will write you. On Sunday morning March 13, we pulled across the Rocky Mountains once more. At eight o'clock in the evening we arrived at Plains, Mont., a town of one thousand inhabitants. Here we located as this is the gateway to the Flathead Indian Reservation.

Now, I will state a few facts concerning this new country you have heard so much talk of. First, I shall say it is over estimated. It is true the soil is fine, but they have not the rainfall and climate to grow vegetation as it is grown in the East. So far as irrigation is concerned it is only a money hunt. Nine-tenths that buy it don't get it, but they have to pay for it just the same, so when a man pays his taxes and his irrigation he has but little left. It is worse than a railroad tax. This country is on a great boom, but I am not going to boom it to Eastern friends and relatives, who, without Western experience, would break themselves up until with it are liable to. Our Western lesson has cost us 16 years of hard labor, and to tell you we will make it all right, I can't do it, but I can tell you I see one of the hardest parts of our life just before us. We are making every effort possible to meet it well. If we make it all right or all wrong, our pocket book will be as flat as if a thirteen hundred pound horse's big foot was on it. I will say to the young man a trip to the West would be one of the grandest lessons of your life. It might save you hundreds of dollars in later years. I will say to you that have families, don't cross the Mississippi. I will say to those who are on the Western slope of life, you have no need of this country, you are not physically able to stand the hardships that await the homeseker. Stay where you are, stick to your post, it is my advice. Folks you have a grand country, but you don't know it. You have good markets for your fruit and vegetables, but you don't know it. Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Paul can't be beat. Men live 15 miles from railroad here and market at Billings, 500 miles, and North Dakota 1400 miles. Think of that distance.

All you need is more pluck and push. Get up and go. Why Eastern people do better in the West is because they are put under a boss to work like the negroes were. I always thought I worked hard, but I never had the first lesson in hard work till this summer. One morning I knew I was a little late, so anxious to be at my post at the proper time I forgot to eat one bite of bread for breakfast. If the men in the East would get stirred up that way in pursuit of that dollar there would not only be a few rich ones, but many. You have many advantages they have not. Get here, I don't know when I will be back. It may be a year and half or it may be five, but I can tell you I am coming home to live again. I have mixed and mingled with almost every nationality represented. I am not ashamed of my birthplace. I am glad I am a full blooded Kentuckian. I will say to you I shall live and die in possession of Kentucky soil, wishing you all success, good bye.

A LETTER FROM MONTANA.

Plains, Mont., July 12, 1910.—I have been wondering if my Big Sandy friends would not take the pains to read a short letter from a member of their circle now in the "Wild West."

Most of my acquaintances in old Lawrence know my mission to Montana. I was lucky enough to draw a number in the drawing for lands in the Flathead Indian Reservation. I was to show up in May or might lose my right, so I preferred to "show up." And now the law requires that I reside on it twelve months and then I can obtain title to it. So you see I am in a tie-up for the present, but I think the price of the tie-up is sufficient to warrant my staying, so here I am.

As to the ranch, as it is called out here, I hold 160 acres of level land. It can plowed any way you wish, and there is no bushes or stumps or sprouts or anything to interfere with the plow, except on, say sixty acres, there is a heavy coat of grass sod and the power to break this will necessarily have to be rather heavy. The soil is mostly black, although some of the upper side is more gray. But I am told that this is just as valuable as any of the 160. There is about forty acres of this gray soil. I have a well, found water at a depth of 10 feet, cold as Kentucky ice.

There are lots of Indians here, and from their regalia you could not tell men and women apart. They wear gay colors alike, even the breeds wear the red and green around their necks. Full bloods of both sex wear long hair platted with red flannel tied on ends of plait and covering the hair about one-third its length. Broad hats, and around their waist is tied a garment resembling a blanket and extends down about the knees or perhaps a little below and is of the most gorgeous colors. Moccasins made of buck skins serve them as shoes. They are surely a peculiar set of fellows. Peculiarities in everything. When they buy anything to eat and it is delivered in glass, tin or anything that will endure the weather, they empty it, and hang the receptacle in a bush and let it stay there. If there are no bushes they use the fence for this purpose. When you are riding or driving on the road and are about to meet an Indian he leaves the road soon as he sees you coming and often by the time he is opposite you he is fifty yards from the road, and still at full gallop. You never see them walking. You never see the little ones around the wigwam playing. Even on the hottest days, the door is closed and all seem to be away, but if you "peak on the door" you will find them at home. They are very clever and gentle to the settlers. Conversing and laughing freely, and ask almost every time for a match to light their pipe or cigarette. I am not able to make even an intelligent guess as to how many Indians are still on the reservation. But they are not scattered over the prairie. They have settlements of 80 acres each and had the selection before the opening of white. So they have the lands near the timber, for here they can get wood and water, and it seems that that is all they want. They have nilometers of 80 acres each and had the selection before the opening of white. So they have the lands near the timber, for here they can get wood and water, and it seems that that is all they want. They have nilometers of 80 acres each and had the selection before the opening of white. So they have the lands near the timber, for here they can get wood and water, and it seems that that is all they want.

This is a fine country in many ways. The moral sentiment, however, is not what it might be. For instance, you have to refer to the calendar to know when Sunday comes. I saw an old soldier on Sunday planting potatoes. I saw two carpenters building a house right in town on Sunday. Stores, saloons all open seven days in the week. Men take their wives—some men—and visit houses on a back street, and stop at the saloon and take a glass of beer as they go back to the children. "Match Ball" is the Sunday game, and nearly everybody attend. Dancing is a great sport and even the best girls intend. You know that Jeffries and Johnson fought at Reno, Nevada. So that will show you that this wild west is not what we hope it will be along moral lines.

But this is just one feature. There are some good moral people and they are fighting hard for a reform. But suppose you want to

"I had a mishap at the age of 41, which left me in bad fix," writes Mrs. Georgia Usher, of Conyers, Ga.

"I was unconscious for three days, and after that I would have fainting spells, dizziness, nervousness, sick headache, heart palpitation and many strange feelings.

"I suffered greatly with ailments due to the change of life and had 3 doctors, but they did no good, so I concluded to try Cardui.

We are authorized to announce
MORDECAI WILLIAMS,
of Boyd county, as a candidate for Congress, Ninth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce
W. J. FIELDS,
of Carter county, as a candidate for Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic party of the Ninth District.

I desire to announce myself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District. I was a candidate for the nomination before the convention two years ago which nominated James N. Kehoe, and following that convention, it was almost unanimously conceded that I was the logical candidate and entitled to the nomination at the hands of my party this year. I have always been a zealous party worker, and if nominated, will conduct an energetic campaign for election and if elected will devote all my time, energies and talent to the office and diligently work for the interests of the people of my District.

I respectfully solicit support for this nomination.

ROOKERY TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

MOUNT TABOR'S PARABOLIC VISION.

Matthew 17:1-8; 14-20.—July 24.

"This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him."

SIX days after our Lord's words concluding our last study, he took Peter, James and John, three of his favorites among the disciples, into a high mountain. There he was transfigured before them; that is to say, his appearance changed, his face shone like the sun, his garments were white like the light. Then the vision grew and Moses and Elijah appeared to be holding conversation with the transfigured Jesus. The impulse of St. Peter, anxious to serve, inquired whether or not it was the Master's will that they build three tabernacles; one for him, one for Moses and one for Elijah, on the top of the mountain. One of the evangelists says, "He knew not what he said." Another account shows that the three disciples were for a time overwhelmed by something like drowsiness but later became fully awake.

It was on this occasion that they heard a voice from the heavens, saying, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him." It required our Lord's kind words and touch to relieve the Apostles of their fright, and looking up they saw no one but Jesus. His transfiguration had vanished, and it was the Master, just as before. At momentally, they thought that Jesus had entered into glory, they now perceived that they were mistaken. Another account tells us that as they were coming down the mountain side Jesus charged them, "They should not tell the vision to any one until after his resurrection from the dead. He thus explained to them that the whole matter was a vision, an apparition. This was a fulfillment of what he had told them in his last words of our lesson of a week ago, "There be some standing here which shall not taste of death till they see the Son of man coming in his Kingdom." These three disciples had been standing in his presence at the time those words were uttered, and now they had seen the Son of man in his Kingdom glory—in vision. The reality of that vision has not yet come to pass, although it is surely nigh, even at the door.

St. Peter himself declares that they accepted the vision as a corroboration of our Lord's assurance of his coming Kingdom. In his Epistle he says, "We have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus, but were eye witnesses of his majesty [this kingdom], when we were with him in the holy mount." (1 Peter 1:16, 18.) Yet the Apostle proceeds to tell us that this vision, helpful as it was at the time, became secondary as he came to a better understanding of the prophecy which more particularly describes our Lord's second coming and Kingdom. He says, "We have a more sure word of prophecy [a more sure evidence than the vision] to which we do well to take heed as unto a lamp that shines in a dark place until the day dawn"—until the Millennial morning dawn—! Peter 1:19.

Before leaving the story of the transfiguration, which symbolized our Lord's Kingdom glory, we note his gracious words to the affrighted disciples, "Arise, and be not afraid." On several occasions he thus addressed them. It would appear that by nature many of us have a consciousness of our own imperfections and a realization of our unworthiness of Divine favor; and fears are likely to grasp us and torture us. This is because we do not know our heavenly Father. The more we learn of him the more does the love of God cast out fear from our hearts, and assure us that he who created us is sympathetic towards all who are striving for righteousness. He is a great God, not a little one. True he will not give his greatest blessings to any except those who come into harmony with him, but, on the other hand, he is not a demon that he should be feared as such. He takes no pleasure in the suffering of his creatures and will not permit that any should suffer eternally, therefore his provision that all shall have through Christ, an opportunity for regaining perfection and eternal life, and that whosoever will not avail himself of this great privilege must die the second death—must be annihilated.

While Jesus and the three favored Apostles were in the mount of transfiguration, supposed to have been Mount Tabor, at the foot of the monolith there was a man whose son was a lunatic, whom he had brought that the Lord might expel the demon. The Apostles had already been out, as the Lord's representatives in various parts of the country of Palestine, curing the sick and expelling demons in his name; so they assayed to cast out this demon but could not. The Revised Version speaks of the sufferer as an epileptic. Indeed, all higher criticism disputes that there is such a thing as obsession by evil spirits. It is a common saying today among the Higher Critics that what our Lord and the Apostles mistook for demon possession was merely insanity, epilepsy, etc. Of course the word disease is broad enough to cover any kind of ailment, whether it be a direct infliction from the Adversary, or an indirect one through heredity. In either case there is loss of ease, disease, discomfort. We, however, have more confidence in the wisdom of the Lord and his chosen Apostles and mouth-pieces than we have in all the Doctors of theology and Doctors of medicine in the whole earth. We therefore accept this narrative just as it reads, that Jesus rebuked the "devil" and cast him out of the boy, who was cured from that very hour.

The disciples who had been unsuccessful in casting out this demon, called the Master away from the hearing of the multitude and asked him why they had failed when they attempted to cast out the demon. He replied, "Because of your little faith." Another account says that he stated, "This kind cometh not out except by fasting and prayer." In other words, the lesson to the Apostles was that their greatest power would result from their living very near to God, living lives of self-denial and prayer. Of course, fasting to be seen of men is not here inculcated, nor do we suggest that the works of penance on the part of disciples would make them more efficient in the understanding of the Lord's mystery; rather the thought is, the greater one lives to God the more of the Divine power may be exercised by and through him.

It is perhaps difficult for us to understand our Lord's reference to their having little faith, for they surely exercised considerable faith in making an attempt to cast out the demon. Faith, to be successful, must be backed by spiritual power; and our Lord assures us that even with a small amount of faith we would be able to remove a mountain and nothing would be impossible. We are not to suppose that our Lord meant that his followers should try to remove mountains as a diversion, nor as a proof of their faith, for by so doing they would be seriously interfering with the interests of others who would be more conveniently by having the mountain remain. This they would have no right to do. We assume therefore that the thought must be that if in the fulfillment of the Divine command it should be necessary to have a mountain removed, and if the commission had been given to one of the Lord's followers to remove the mountain, and if he could exercise the faith to obey the command, the result would correspond to the faith exercised. All that the majority of us could do would be to exercise as much faith as possible and ask the Lord for more, and also seek to cultivate a greater degree of faith.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE.

Success.

There is but one way out of poverty for the generality of mankind, and that is downright hard work, economy and self-denial. Young man, draw your coat, roll up your sleeves and wade in. This everlastingly waiting for something to turn up—waiting to step into dead men's shoes, will terminate your career as a mere groveling, dependent, abasing and only existing and filling space without a real or single purpose in life. Wake up! Stir around and avert the curse of poverty through your veins. Hold up your head, clean your face, put on a smile and cast that woe-be-gone look in the rubbish by the wayside, where it belongs.

Move forward, clear the track, and the grandest opportunities of life will open up, which you want to seize with a tenacious grip, and they will unfold to you all hidden treasures you ever imagined or conceived. Young man, this is no imagination of men and gods is "He said so."

to drawing, a delusive sketch, a fantasy, and if you possess enough grit and staining you can make it a picture true to life; thousands have done it, and you have an equal tooling today. Few rich men owe their possessions to accident; few great men owe their distinction to luck and chance. Thus far greater number have won by perseverance, pluck and pluck, diligent in business, spending less than their earnings mounting obstacles, overcoming difficulties, with a will inincible.

Imitators.

There are three kinds of workers, and only three, in this world. They are the pullers-down, the builders-up, and the imitators. The first are the most successful, the second are the most self-sacrificing, but the last are the most numerous. They make no beaten tracks, for they take their feet up and put them carefully down in the exact steps of their predecessors. They will not go where others have not been. Ghosts of life and the specters of greatness are always before them. Authority is a god whom they worship with devout superstition. They say their prayers with awe stricken regularly before the shrine of antiquated error and time-honored falsehoods. The king of men, this is no imagination of men and gods is "He said so."

A Wild Blizzard Ragging brings danger, suffering—often death—to thousands, who take colds, coughs and laryngitis—that terror of Winter and Spring. It's dangerous signals are "stuffed up," nostrils lower part of nose sore, chills and fever, pain in back of head, and a throat-gripping cough. When grip attacks, as you value your life, don't delay getting Dr. King's New Discovery. "One bottle cured me," writes A. L. Dunn, of Pine Valley, Miss., "after being laid up three weeks with Grip." For sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, its supreme. 50c. $1.00. Guaranteed by A. M. Hughee.

To have your watch properly repaired take it to Mr. Rollings, at Conley's store. He is an expert watchmaker.

It would kill them like a dose of arsenic to take a little originality. In their logic, it must be right, follows from the premise, "It has long been believed." History is argument, fashion authority, and the grand work of life is to please the world. In walk and carriage, dress and table, in reading and praying and in last in dying and being buried, they seriously follow what others have done. They are happy in service and joyfully in slavery. It is a melancholy fact that most teachers are imitators. They come in flocks from normal schools, in great numbers from institutes and in thousands from our educational meetings. They are anxious enquirers after others' doings, and willingly follow any educated goat that boldly leads the way, always with note book in hand asking, "Do tell me exactly how you teach!"

What to do With Mother.

And the question in many a group has been, although not plainly stated: "What shall we do with the mothers, anyhow? They are so far behind the times." Permit us to suggest that if the mother had given more time to looking after you she would have been as fully up to date as you in music, in style of gait, in aesthetic taste and in all sorts of information. We expect that while you were studying botany and chemistry and embroidery and the new opera she was studying household economics. But one day, from overwork, or sitting up of nights with a neighbor's sick child, or a blast of the east wind, which pneumonia are harbored, mother is sick. Yet the family think she will soon be well, for she has been sick so often and always has gotten well and the physician comes three times a day, and there is a consultation of the doctors and the news is gradually broken that recovery is impossible, given in the words, "While there is life there is hope." And the white pillow over which are strewn the locks a little tinted with snow becomes the point around which all the family gather, some kneeling, and the pulse beats the last throb, and the bosom trembles with the last breath, and the question is asked in a whisper all over the group, "Is she gone?" And all is over.

Maternal Supervision.

Now comes the regret. Now the daughter reviews her former criticism of maternal supervision. The first time she realizes what it is to have a mother and what it is to lose a mother. Tell us, men and women, young and old, do any of us appreciate how much mother was to us until she was gone? Young woman, you will probably never have a more disinterested friend than your mother. When she says anything is unsafe or imprudent, you had better believe it is unsafe and imprudent.

Every man, every woman, every child has some talent, some power, some opportunity of getting good and doing good. Each day offers some occasion for using this talent. As we use it is gradually increases, improves and becomes native to the character. As we neglect it, it dwindles, withers and disappears. This is the stern but lenient law by which we live. This makes character real and enduring; this makes progress possible; this turns men into angels and virtue into goodness.

The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an atomizer, is an unspeakable relief to sufferers from Catarrh. Some of them deserve it as a Godsend, and no wonder. The thick, foul discharge is dislodged and the patient breathes freely, perhaps for the first time in weeks. Liquid Cream Balm contains all the healing, purifying elements of the solid form, and it never fails to satisfy. Sold by all druggists for 75c, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren street, New York.

Great Exposition Being Planned for Southland

Resources of the Appalachian Mountain Region to Be Displayed to World.

A great exposition, to exploit the resources of the Appalachian mountain region, included in the states of Alabama, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia, will be held in Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 12 to Oct. 12, next. The movement has been organized purely in the interest of letting the outside world know what is included in these mountains. The possibilities for developing untold wealth are seemingly unlimited. It is with a view to attracting the attention of the people of these Appalachian states, as well as of the entire nation, to these opportunities and possibilities that this exposition is to be held. In addition to the commercial and industrial sides, however, there will be many amusement features, and the historic grandeur of the Appalachian territory will be told in panoramas, tableaux, spectacles and by other means that will prove highly interesting and entertaining. The whole plan will be to arouse a new interest in the Appalachian territory, and bring the people of the Appalachian states closer together. That the exposition will be a success is already assured, and more than 300,000 visitors are expected during the four weeks it continues.

Horses, Mules and Cattle Are Raised

Appalachian Mountain Region Affords Abundant Opportunities.

The Appalachian region is unequalled in America as a home for breeding establishments. The winters are not too rigorous and summer's heat is tempered by breezes wafted from mountain ranges and foothills into the fertile valleys lying between. Cattle from this region are shipped to Baltimore and exported, commanding high prices in European centers. The Tennessee mule is second to none, not even the Missouri or Kentucky mule. Not so large as the Missouri animal, the Tennessee product combines all the good qualities of the would-be rivals and excels them in durability, stamina and as a beast of burden for all-round general purposes.

Mountain ranges in profusion make the Appalachian the ideal section for sheep raising—a most profitable and much neglected industry. While Kentucky is the home of the thoroughbred, and justly proud of her reputation, the racing steel marvels of the grand circuit are the evolution of the old "side-wheeler" pacers used by devout circuit riders before the civil war in going from church to church in the mountain and valleys of the Appalachian country. The "Patch" and "Gentry" families of noted racers are the perfected descendants of these ambling mountain horses, and there's nothing lacking but the investment of capital by experienced men in various lines of stock raising to make this the Mecca of animal industry, now but in its infancy.

A more inviting region for the trotter of the thoroughbred and the standard bred horse is not to be found, while, agriculturally, the fertile valleys are a veritable paradise. The possibilities of this region, not only as adapted to stock raising, agriculture and mining, but to all other proposed avenues of industry, will be fully set out at the Appalachian Exposition, to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., September 12 to October 12 next. This will be the greatest exposition the south has ever known.

Farmers at last are beginning to see their opportunities and are taking up the breeding of thoroughbred stock. It costs but little more, and the returns are infinitely larger. In nearly every county seat during the fall, race meetings and fairs are held and large attendance attests the growing of the interest.

The possibilities of this region, not only as adapted to stock raising, agriculture and mining, but to all other proposed avenues of industry, will be fully set out at the Appalachian Exposition, to be held in Knoxville, Tenn., September 12 to October 12 next. The mineral exhibit will be housed in an appropriate building, and it will be one of the pride of the exposition to give the world at large a glimpse of what is to be found in this region, which includes parts of eight southern states. It will be but another lesson to men of the north and east and west, as to the great natural wealth of the south. This display should be seen.

WEBBVILLE.

The marriage of Miss Glendora Woods and Mr. Alfrey S Doty was solemnized at home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs. W. H. Woods Wednesday evening, June 29th. Rev. T. Dick, of the Presbyterian church of Crosson, was the officiating minister. Only relatives and a few friends of bride and groom were present.

The house was elaborately decorated with plants and flowers, the colors pink and white being carried out. In the drawing room the scene of the ceremony, there was an arch of ferns, daisies and carnations, the windows and doors were draped with ferns and daisies, the lights were pink and white wax candles in the single crystal glass candlesticks, while in the porches and lawn were hung Japanese lanterns which shed a soft mellow light. The porch was thrown into a reception room, where the guests were received by Mrs. W. K. Woods and daughter, Mrs. Gardner.

At 7:30 o'clock, to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march played by Miss Maybelle Peay, the wedding party entered the room, Misses Hazel Fischer and Belva Green in front and Miss Celia Petri and Mr. O. P. Doty, Jr., next followed by the bride and groom. The bride was dressed in a handsome cream brocaded satin over white taffeta, trimmed in imported lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white bride's roses. Miss Petri, maid of honor, wore a beautiful white allover embroidered batiste dress, white sash white shoes and gloves and carried a bouquet of flush pink carnations. Misses Fischer and Greene, other bride's maids, wore beautiful white lingerie dresses, white shoes and gloves, pink sashes, and carried pink and white carnations. The groom and best man wore black.

After the ceremony the bridal party marched to the dining room followed by the guests. The bridal party was seated at one table, the oldest members of the families at the next table, and the younger guests at the other table. A delightful five course dinner was served, the dining room was draped in pink and white with a green background. After the dinner was served, the bride and groom hurried to don their traveling suits, the bride's being tan, the groom's grey. The whole bridal party went to the special train which was waiting to carry them to E. K. Junction, where they boarded a C. & O. train amid showers of rice and best wishes, on their honey moon trip.
